

Arrogance can't survive His presence.

> "As long as you are proud you cannot know God. — C.S. Lewis

Throughout Scripture, when someone was graced with God's presence, or even a messenger of God, the reaction was remarkably consistent: they fell to their knees.

Joshua fell facedown in reverence. When the voice of God spoke on the mountain, the disciples fell facedown, terrified. And when John saw Jesus, he fell at His feet as though dead.

Anyone walking with God and experiencing His presence is immediately humbled. As Paul wrote, "so that no one may boast before him" (1 Corinthians 1:29). We cannot boast of who we are, or of anything we've done, next to the Creator of the heavens and the earth.

Show me an arrogant person, and I'll show you someone who hasn't experienced the presence of God, or doesn't seek it daily.

For leaders, that makes humility a test of intimacy. The closer you are to God, the less you need to be noticed, and the more He shows through you.

Where do you need to get on your knees before you step in front of your team?

At Boaz Strategic, we develop leaders who lead from humility, not ego.
